

TuM'Fatig news

MARCH 2011

NUMBER 1

Today's news:

- This is our planet but we don't own it ;
- Karate session ;
- Kobudo training on Kue ;
- Joomla and Google.

Coming next:

- Create an HTML newsletter with Free Software ;
- Review of the annual "Stage de Pâques".

Liked on the Internet:

Ecole d'Arts Martiaux Frédéric Méjias
<http://www.ecoleartsmartiaux.com/>

Mihrimah Ghaziya's travel blog
<http://lucky-day.over-blog.de/>

Croix-Rouge Française – Catastrophe Japon 2011
<http://tinyurl.com/5svlono>

This is our planet but we don't own it

The most recent and catastrophic event which everyone talks about is the tsunami in Japan. In fact, depending on who you listen to, you'll hear about the tsunami or the nuclear menace from the damaged power supplies. It is quite amazing to realize that every TV show covered the tsunami for two days, nearly full-time, then suddenly no more news. The only remaining information from that natural disaster is the trip of the nuclear cloud...

Of course, Japanese people must be helped. There are thousands, if not millions, of people that are now homeless and in great difficulty to get food and cure. That said, there's something that comes to my mind: how could this happen. Heck, some Human being acknowledged constructing about 50 nuclear supplies near a geographic instable zone? Of course, everybody has to right to get food, medicine, electricity and comfort but, hey, there is no way to stop such nuclear reaction! The "game" is to keep the nuclear reaction as stable as possible... Even a 10 year old child would understand that this is non-responsible. And we still vote dummies that don't care about risks until shit happens!

Some day, one will have to stand up and say stop. Stop blogging, stop driving rather walking 10 minutes, stop using plain water in the toilets... Realize that nothing is endless and stop wishing for some more... Or this may be the last chance mother Earth gave us!

That said, of course, as many of us, I'll keep using my MacBook to write non-essential things on my Web site. And this is some of the things that filled my life since my last call.

Karate session

From Friday, March 11th to Sunday, March 13th, I went to a Karate session at the "Ecole d'Arts Martiaux Frédéric Méjias". It was a really nice session where we were explained the first of the Shotokan "Tekki" katas, namely "Tekki Shodan". We also had the opportunity to learn the two others katas : "Tekki Nidan" and "Tekki Sandan". Now that we learned the path and the meaning, we have to practice and "feel" it.

Kobudo training on Kue

On Friday, March 18th, we were supposed to be part of a TV report about Kobudo which would introduce the next "Festival des Arts Martiaux". Unfortunately, due to the recent Japan events, it was cancelled. As we were about 25 that night, our sensei decided that we could have a special training. He decided that we would practice the Kue kata. This is what we did for about 2 hours. And as each such time, we now have lots of homework!

Joomla and Google search

I started dealing with a Joomla based website. It is lying there for quite a bit now but there is not much traffic to it. This is a nice challenge. Rewrite, reorganize, highlight things so that it gets a better rank in Google. There are quite a few things I already learn. Really interesting.

TuM'Fatig

Joel Carnat
Paris
France

Mob: +33 (0)xxxxxxxxx
Mail: joel@carnat.net

<http://www.tumfatig.net>

That's All Folks! Take care.